Tennis Tournament Adds Gayety
to Southampton Colony's WeekRound of Dinner Parties
Is Followed by Annual Dance at the Meadow Club

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 28.—ONE of the busiest weeks for the members of the summer colony came to a close to-day with a round of dinner parties and the annual dance at the Meadow Club, which always follows the tennis tournament.

Weather conditions have been favorable for tennis week, and the courts at the Meadow Club have been well filled with players each morning. More than the usual interest was shown in the tournament this year, as was evidenced by the large galleries of spectators who watched the players from the clubhouse porches, especially in the semi-finals on Friday and the final matches to-day. There was the usual display of costumes. Silk sweaters, with hats to match the color, were very popular for morning wear.

The tennis dance to-night at the clubhouse was one of the largest of the season. It was attended mostly by members of the younger set. Preceding the dance a dinner was given at the club by Mr. and Mrs. Frederick P. Humphries.

On Friday night Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pelham Robbins gave a dinner followed by a supper at the Suffolk Hunt Club, and on the same evening Mr. E. M. Horne entertained for her son, E. P. Horne, at a small dance given at her villa on First Neck Lane, P. O. Box 100, Southampton.

On Wednesday Mrs. Henry H. Rogers entertained for her daughter, Miss Millicent Rogers, at a dinner and dance given at her new villa in the Dunes. About fifty of the younger set were present in costume.

Mrs. Rufus L. Patterson gave a fancy dress dance on Monday evening at her summer home for the Misses Mary Patterson and Alice Davidson and Messrs. Quentin Roosevelt, Meredith Lyne and Amory Carhart, who were guests of her daughter Miss Lucy Patterson.

Another dance was given by Ralph J. Preston on Tuesday night.

Nearly every cottage is filled with guests. The clubs and hotels have been filled for the entire week.

Frederick Huntington has been the guest of Richard Babcock and Mr. and Mrs. George Dadman are entertaining Miss Ira Kissel. Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt Pell are with Col. and Mrs. Robert M. Thompson. Mrs. Fairfax S. Landstreet had as her guests R. Stoddard and R. Kelly, classmates of her son, Stuart Landstreet.

Mrs. Alexander H. Tiers gave a house party for her daughter, Miss Esther Tiers. Among their guests were Miss Lucille Baldwin, Rudolph

Miss Gladys Olcott on Bally Lad.

Kissel, Coster Steers and Bayard Bowle.

On Friday, September 3, Mrs. Franklyn D. Pelton will entertain at the Meadow Club, when Mrs. Bertha Ware

Cady will give an informal talk on rhythmic dancing. Mrs. Cady will illustrate the dances herself, assisted by Gaston Sargeant of the Royal Opera, Covent Garden, London.

Among those occupying boxes were Mrs. Frederick B. Carter, C. C. Boggs, Mr. and Mrs. James L. Brees, Miss Frances Brees, Mrs. T. Morris Carnegie, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Coffin, Mr. and Mrs. G. Warrington Curtis, Mrs. J. R. Dilworth, Mr. and Mrs. S. K. de Forest, Mrs. E. Stewart Davis, Mr. Albert H. Ely, Mrs. Henry D. Whitfield, Col. and Mrs. Robert M. Thompson, Mrs. R. A. Frank, Mrs. William M. Grinnell, Mrs. Harry P. Robbins, Mrs. Henry C. Phillips, Miss Hetty Parrish, Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Hoffman, Mrs. Goodhue Livingston, Mrs. Alonzo Potter, Mrs. John F. Harris, Mrs. R. C. Vance and Mrs. George C. Kobbe.

Another late stayer will be Mrs. George D. Widener, at her new villa, Miramar, with which she is greatly pleased. So pleased with the house, Mrs. Widener expressed her intention that she wished she could use it the whole year.

Mrs. Richard H. Townsend of Washington, who was one of the larger dinner hostesses of the present week, will not close her Newport season until the end of September, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Frederick Hoffman, who are always among the summer stayers, will not close Armesa Hall until November 15.

Mrs. Barger Wallach is also to remain until November at Edna Villa, and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence L. Gillespie, who have had Mr. and Mrs. Alexander D. B. Pratt and Frederick H. Baldwin as their guests recently, will be among the autumn colonists. Mrs. Maturin Livingston, who has been spending the summer with her daughter, Mrs. Ogden Mills, will remain throughout September at the Mills residence on Cliff.

The first two rentals for the summer season of 1916 were announced this week, and others are expected before long. Mrs. David Nevins of Methuen, Mass., has again taken the cottage of Miss E. B. Waring, the Hypothese, on Catherine street, and Mrs. Edward C. Post, who for a number of seasons has occupied the Brown estate's cottage on Bellevue court, has renewed her lease of that place for another year.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman deR. Whitehouse, who recently purchased the Nelson and Murray estates on Price's Neck, have been here for a few days, principally to look over their new property and to make up their minds what was to be done with it before another summer. From what is known of Mr. Whitehouse's plans it is his intention to have one of the two houses removed, the land all thrown into one and improved and to use the other residence for his summer home, arriving in the future early in the summer and remaining here until late in the fall. Mr. and Mrs. Whitehouse have sold their Long Island home.

There is every indication that September is to be about as gay, that is the first half of it at least, as the latter part of the present month. Mr. and Mrs. Pembroke Jones and quite a few others have parties arranged and Mrs. Joseph E. Widener is to start the month's festivities off on the 4th with a big dinner.

NEWPORT SUMMER
COLONY TO LINGER

Some Owners of Cottages Intend to Remain in Them Until November.

BELMONT'S TAKE VILLA

Newport, August 28.—While it cannot be said that the Newport season is waning in the least, for the activities of the present week have shown it to be very lively here, still there are those of the summer colony who are planning for the fall.

The Newport season for the last few years have been growing longer and more and more of the cottagers have been remaining at their summer homes longer each year. The same is to be the case this year, for quite a few of them have already announced that they will not close until the latter part of September, others have said they will stay here until October and still others are going to remain until November.

Mrs. William Jay, one of the pioneers among the Newport summer colonists, is to be among the late stayers, and Mr. and Mrs. M. Van Beuren will remain at their Middletown farm until Christmas, though Mr. Van Beuren will be away during September in Porto Rico, in which place he has interests and for which he left on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Wilson have returned from Saratoga to spend the late season here. Dr. and Mrs. Henry Barton Jacobs are not to close Whiteholme until the first week of October, and Mr. and Mrs. George Brooke of Philadelphia, who this week have had Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ridgeway as their guests, will remain until the middle of September.

Another sure sign of a late season came when the announcement was made that Mr. and Mrs. Perry Belmont, who came here for the wedding of Miss Margaret P. Andrews and Morgan Belmont, had taken the Eldridge villa on Ochre Point for the remainder of the summer. They were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. August Belmont, who also are to stay late, at the time, but have during the week taken possession of the Ochre Point house.

Mrs. Whitman, wife of Gov. Whitman, closed her season to-day and has left for Albany. Mr. and Mrs. Philip A. Clark are remaining until after the horse show. Miss Anna Sands will not close her cottage until October, and Mr. and Mrs. Pembroke Jones are to keep Sherwood open until well into the fall.

Miss Julia Berwind of Philadelphia, who has been the guest of her brother, Edward J. Berwind, since he arrived this summer, is closing her visit on Labor Day, but Mr. Berwind will not close The Elms at that time. He is staying on for some time longer. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sampson Stevens, who gave one of the present week's dinner dances and who are occupying apartments at the Buerchinger King, are staying here until the middle of September, but Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Whitehouse are closing Eastbourne Lodge on September 6 and returning to Mount Kisco.

Miss Georgianna G. King as usual will remain in Newport all winter and she has again taken the cottage of Robert G. Hone on Olden road for the cold months. Former Commodore and Mrs. Eldridge T. Gerry will remain at Seaview until the end of September, and Dr. and Mrs. Nicholas Murray will not return to New York until the latter part of September. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Widener also plan to be among the October colony, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Baldwin, at their summer home, Snug Harbor, and Mrs. I. Townsend Burden, at Fair Lawn, will remain until the same month.

Many of the officers of the Atlantic fleet while the ships were based on Narragansett Bay during the summer brought their wives and families here or to Jamestown, on the bay. The fleet has taken its departure now, but the families of a majority of the officers are to remain on for the rest of the summer.

Another late stayer will be Mrs. George D. Widener, at her new villa, Miramar, with which she is greatly pleased. So pleased with the house, Mrs. Widener expressed her intention that she wished she could use it the whole year.

Mrs. Richard H. Townsend of Washington, who was one of the larger dinner hostesses of the present week, will not close her Newport season until the end of September, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Frederick Hoffman, who are always among the summer stayers, will not close Armesa Hall until November 15.
